

Claims

- [c1] Any hand-held device such as a flag that displays information about a queue line, such as the purpose of the line, with implicit or explicit instructions, such as an attached tag inscribed with texts or diagrams that direct people to pass the device down the queue line, that serves the purpose of a dynamic sign telling people what lies ahead of them if they decide to wait in that line. A dynamic sign means a sign which has no fixed location, but moves along with the length of the queue line and the location of the newest member who joins the line.